SECOND CHANCE: City cop organises special classes for students who failed SSLC; equips them for supplementary exams

A STUDY IN KHAKI

Out of 100, over 40 students failed in Kannada

May 19, 2022, was a remarkable day for many youths who were at a crucial stage in their lives — the SSLC results were out.

For the few who could not make the cut, it seemed as though, all of sudden, life was at a dead end; especially, matters of education and future career prospects posed worrying questions.

In fact, their life could bounce in any direction because of this perceived failure.

According to the police inspector of Bandepalya, Rajesh LY (49), in the absence of proper guidance, some of the students who failed the SSLC exams risked turning to anti-social activities.

So, the inspector came up with a unique idea to bring some of these students back to school. He scrambled a team of police constables to gather the failed students' details.

After collecting the data, the inspector managed to convince 92 students who had failed the SSLC

Tens of thousands of Bengalureans have not received the second dose of covid-19 vaccine yet.

Around 4.5 lakh individuals above 18 years of age are yet to get their second jab in the backdrop of an uptick in the number of covid cases in the city. That said, over 45% of the target population is not fully vaccinated yet amongst children in the age group of 12-17 years.

According to data from Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike's (BBMP) health department, 100% of those above 60 years of age in the city have received both the doses of covid vaccine. However, 15% of persons in the age group of 18-44 years are yet to receive both doses.

The situation is dire if we look at the number of individuals in the age group of 12-17 years. The Palike had received a target of 7.24 lakh children in this age group; however, nearly 3.3 lakh children are yet to receive the second dose.

The data of two subcategories in the above age group suggested that while the Palike had a target population 4.42 lakh individuals in the age group of 15-18 years,

Bengalurean athlete cycles 19,400 km after rugby accident stopped her from running

Life has been nothing short of an eventful journey for Bhagyashree Sawant. A national athlete, cyclist, rugby player, Guinness record holder and a psychologist by profession, the Bengalurean missed Mount Everest by 800 metres.

Before the second attempt, an accident crippled her. However, this gutsy and gritty woman overcame all hurdles and cycled 19,400 kilometres across the country to create awareness on polio disease.

Recalling her journey, Sawant said that she started her competitive sports at the age of 12. "It was my childhood dream to climb Mount Everest. When I was 17 years old, I realised that Mt Everest could actually be scaled. Coming from a middle-class family, it was quite an expensive dream. My grandmother and my mother decided to sell all their gold ornaments to fund me pursue my passion instead of saving it for my wedding."

She adds that over 10,000 strangers who also crowd-funded to help her. She used to train at a 'high-altitude gym', and had many diet changes, and she used to walk 16 km from home to college and back with 25 kg stuffed in her backpack (along with a few books) and had weight bands on her ankles.

"Though I started scaling Everest, I missed the summit by 800 metres due to bad weather," she said. She thought that she could again repeat the feat but destiny had something else in store. "I was playing rugby and landed on my knee directly and had a medial meniscus tear."

The journey covered 19 states and five Union Territories

Yet, that did not deter her. "I accepted my state and started preparing to bounce back. I did prehab before the surgery so that it helps me to get back in shape again," she added.

However, her recovery didn't go as per her wish. Even two years after her first surgery, her knee was shaky. The doctor classified her as unfit to run. And so, she took to pedalling.

"The doctor never said I cannot cycle! I didn't ask him, what if he said no! So, I decided to cycle across the country, and inspire government school children to take up education and sports along with a polio vaccination awareness drive across various villages and towns. This bicycle journey took 183 days, covering 19 states and five Union Territories. I pedalled 19,400 km. It was also recognised as a Guinness World Record," she added

Sawant was also crowned as Miss Mumbai University in 2013 and a young scientist awardee for research on sports psychology. She is still facing challenges in cycling.

"This way, cycling saved my knee. It began with a few complications like knee inflammation, fatigue, but I always managed it by ensuring that I do not manipulate my body anymore. I am cautious about the do's and strongly focus on them.

The physical difficulty is taken care of by the mental strength," she said, adding that her next aim is to take part in Ironman challenge.

Using art to promote greater sustainable mobility

A community project revolving around wall art to spread awareness on sustainable mobility is expected to come up on the wall adjoining the tree park on Alpine Eco Road in Doddanekundi. The community project, being made by children, is under Doddanekundi Suma Project for neighbourhood improvement in collaboration with Sensing Local, SPARK, and Aravani Art Project.

The tree park that houses more than 500 trees was the result of citizens fighting to clear black spots and redo the place.

The wall art is being executed as a community project including children from the neighbourhood under the guidance of the Aravani Art Project. The team has identified Doddanekundi underpass and near Rainbow Children's Hospital and the work will be around sustainable mobility, waste management and the environment.

Co-founder of Sensing Local, Sobia Rafiq said, "This is part of our efforts to promote sustainable mobility like cycling in the area. We are also looking at putting up more cycling stands and cycling counters." Not just that, the area has been given a makeover too. "The park was infested with debris and garbage. A few volunteers cleared the area and planted nearly 600 saplings. In the first phase, we erected a wall,

The wall is a burst of colours as a result of the art done by kids the gate was fixed and a jogging track was built. Along with kids of the area, the wall art was completed," said Neelima, a volunteer from the SPARK team.

According to Clement Jayakumar, Secretary of Mahadevapura Task Force-Mobility, the project was undertaken under the budget allocated for street art. This is the first spot where the project has been implemented, he explained.

As part of World Environment Day, 25 more fruit trees were added to the tree park.

BBMP forms squads to check on revenue pilferage at residences converted into commercial set-ups

It is not only exams that surprise squads will swoop upon. The Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) has decided to constitute squads to check revenue pilferage. In Bengaluru, it is common to see homes converted into hotels, shops or other commercial establishments. The civic agency will set up squads to check on these places so that property tax can be extracted.

BBMP Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath said, "Bengaluru is one of the highest income tax paying cities in the country. Bengaluru has one of the highest per capita income in the country. Bengaluru property income is one of the highest yet we are not able to collect cent per cent tax. So, now we are forced to find newer ways to collect property tax. This is possible only by identifying all those people who are trying to evade property tax by running shops and commercial establishments in residential areas."

Earlier, BBMP had decided to collect only BESCOM data to see if anyone was using premises for commercial purposes. However, now it has decided to go a bit further. The officials are now planning to get in touch with Karnataka Medical Council and other medical bodies to check how many hospitals are actually registered in Bengaluru. "There may be many hospitals which are not paying property tax. So, now we want to tally the data from the relevant medical bodies and verify it with our records. Now, we are also planning to collect data from the GST council. Every businessman is supposed to have a GST number. So, we will collect all the GST registrations from Bengaluru and personally visit all those buildings to check if they are paying property tax as per our rules. If not, we will slap a penalty," he said adding that BBMP plans to collect Rs 5,400 crore property tax in the City and so far only Rs 2,000 crore has been collected.

In the past too, BBMP has tried all tricks to crack down upon property tax defaulters. In this file picture, BBMP workers are seen taking over defaulters' property

'Common areas can't be parking lots: K-RERA

In a major decision, the Karnataka Real Estate Regulatory Authority (K-RERA) has ordered builders that the promoter/developer shall not allocate common areas for the purposes of car parking. "It is for the association to decide the usage of common areas for the benefit of all the allottees by ensuring that rules and regulations of authorities concerned and fire services are complied with. As mandated under Section 17 of the Act, the promoter is directed to hand over the common areas including car parking area and such other common amenities to the association allottes and submit a compliance memo," the order issued recently stated.

The order was issued with respect to a complaint against a builder for allocating car parking in common areas on 'payment of consideration'. The complainant had alleged that these were illegal acts of the promoter which was resulting in disturbing peaceful enjoyment of the place of residence by the allottees but also obstructing the ingress and egress while parking cars in the respective parking space. The complainant had requested K-RERA that common areas which were allocated as parking need to be cancelled in conformity with the approved plan.

Saree thieves on the prowl

The police are on the lookout for a gang of saree thieves who are on prowl in Bagalgunte and surrounding areas. The gang targets small boutiques and their expensive merchandise and sneak it off hidden within the folds of the sarees they wear. At least five are a part of the gang, the police say.

Thanushri Creative collections at Havanur Layout in Hesaraghatta Main Road was one of the boutiques targeted by this gang on June 3.

The owner-cum-only employee at the boutique Chaitra (30) told Bangalore Mirror that around after lunch time, two men and a woman came into her shop and asked her if she had expensive wedding silk sarees.

They were insisting on grand silk sarees as it was a wedding and said they would buy it in bulk for all of their family members. A few moments later another man and a woman who seem to know the two men and a woman from before, came into the boutique and started asking for kurtis. As Chaitra was busy showing kurtis to the man who said a few other women family members were on the way to the shop, the two women started sneaking in expensive silk sarees.

The entire incident has been captured on CCTV cameras in the shop. Chaitra told Bangalore Mirror she did not even realise that the sarees were gone, but soon after they gone, when she was putting away all the sarees she noticed around 11 silk sarees worth Rs 80,000 have gone missing. She then browsed through the CCTV images when the gang was in her shop and found that the two women had been sneaking in sarees inside their sarees, one of them was even taking the sarees as it is in the boxes, Chaitra added.

Armed with the footage, Chaitra approached the Bagalgunte police who took up her complaint and registered an FIR against five thieves including two women whom the police claims to have identified.

Police sources said this gang is going around targeting smaller boutiques with limited workers and their expensive stocks. A group of them would enter the boutique and one or two would divert the attention of the boutique owner or the worker while the others carry out their stealing of expensive clothes.

"We have clues about this gang since we have identified them using the CCTV footage, and they would be nabbed soon," said a police officer.

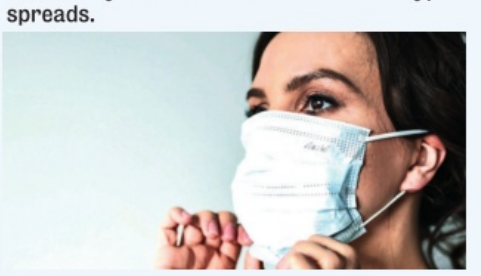
MONKEYPOX: MASK ARE NOT MUST TO PREVENT SPREAD

THE CLAIM

After the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) removed a mask recommendation from its monkeypox travel notice, several claims started being made on social media that mask rule was never about the science, but only about control. There were many wild claims about how monkeypox spreads.



SO, WHAT'S THE TRUTH?

The CDC later revealed that monkeypox can spread through the air but only through 'sustained' face-to-face contact with an infected person.

In a briefing, CDC chief Rochelle Walensky said monkeypox was being passed on through physical contact with symptomatic patients and by touching their clothing and bedding, reports the Daily Mail.

But attempting to clear up whether face masks are needed to avoid catching the rash-causing virus, the epidemiologist explained the rash-causing virus would not 'linger in the air' like Covid.

In hurry to fill up sink hole, Smart City officials forget to do a good job

A sinkhole that had appeared in the middle of Millers Road was fixed within 24 hours of BM reporting the issue on June 4. Even before the article could go to print, Smart City officials scrambled to fix the gaping hole after delaying it for over a month. While the corrective action came immediately, residents allege that the work done is only substandard.

"Smart City officials have done a shoddy job in the name of filling up the sinkhole. There is a huge patch on the road with loose rubble everywhere. The sinkhole is filled with sand and covered with loose stones. Just yesterday a big accident was averted after a boy fell on the road skidding over those loose stones," said Susan P, a resident.

Locals say the patch has not been compacted yet, and as the traffic zips past, it is slowly going down.

"The sinkhole was filled up in a hurry and can be seen sinking already. It has become a dangerous spot for two-wheelers," said another resident. Locals also rue that the stretch is a vendors' paradise on Fridays. The stall owners use the extra pavement tiles that have been left behind alongside the pedestrian.

"Every Friday, vendors prop up their stalls using the material left behind and keep them scattered across the stretch. These things should be cleared once the work is complete," added Susan.

According to Smart City officials, the patch is still a work in progress and will be asphalted eventually.

"We had opened this spot to interlink the existing water line to the new water lines laid down by Smart City. However, BWSSB suggested an alternate spot for the work. While the interlinking is completed, we need to wait to ensure that it is a success. If not, we will have to dig up the spot on Millers Road. This is what has not been asphalted yet. However, we are repeatedly leveling and rolling the patch. We will soon water it to ensure compaction," said a Smart City Official.

The official also said that the garbage woes on the stretch will be sorted out very soon.

"We are putting up stainless steel dustbins, similar to the ones installed on racecourse road and palace road. These are too bulky to be stolen. However, bins will be installed only after the completion of work, which will take another month. The process got delayed as we did not have permission from SWR railway to carry out our work under the railway bridge. However, we have now received the permission," added the official.

Digging up the dirt in Electronics City

Residents of Electronics City are irked by locals who are digging up the road to lay down pipes. They say this is causing significant damage to a good road. They have also reported that after the digging work was done, no arrangements were made by the people to fix them.

Requesting anonymity, a resident of the area said, "These people have not taken permission from any authority before digging the roads. If any authority was involved, they would have made an effort to fix it after work was completed. No such thing has happened here."

They also said that many new apartments are coming up in the place and they fear that such instances will only increase.

Indra Gowda, another resident of the area, said, "The roads have become so bad. The people who are doing this have no idea about the damage they are causing. It becomes very difficult to commute through these roads. Because of a few people we all have to go through this ordeal."

The residents said that after digging the road, they fill it with gravel and sand which gets washed off whenever it rains.

Another resident of the area said, "Just a few days back my wife had an accident on this road. In fact, anyone who is not an expert driver will face some kind of injury or other while going through this area."

Two-wheelers and pedestrians are reportedly having a terrible time trying to commute through this patch because of the craters caused by digging.

Amrutha Hegde, another resident, said, "The road does not have proper streetlights as well, and because of that, at night we cannot see where there are holes. There are so many chances of hurting ourselves or falling down."

The residents have tried to complain to the authorities responsible, however they have not received any response from their end yet.

The mettle to be metal

Pioneers of city's metal scene take us through evolution of genre, from the very start to post-pandemic time

| R Prashanth Vidyasagar

TWEETS @BangaloreMirror

Bengaluru has a little bit of something for everybody. Especially so in the music circuit. Every genre of music has its set of consumers, but the rock and metal scene has put the city in the spotlight. The metal culture in Bengaluru has been fab but not without its share of ups and downs. To get a glimpse of the erstwhile and the existing, Bangalore Mirror spoke to the people who have kept the culture alive and thriving, in their own ways.

Salman Syed, Founder, Bangalore Open Air

Attending Wacken Open Air (WOA), watching 85,000 metalheads sing in unison to Iron Maiden while on a euro trip with Kryptos in 2010 gave birth to India's only festival dedicated to heavy metal i.e. Bangalore Open Air (BOA). Having no prior experience he reached out to the folks at Wacken (Mr. Enno) and decided to start off with a Wacken metal battle. This was in 2011 and was a grand success. A meeting with the founder of WOA ensued after which the first edition of BOA was held in 2012.

"I was 21 years old then. We lost a lot of money and I was taken for a ride by the people I worked with. I had no idea about how things worked. Someone created fake tickets for the second edition and it turned out to be a bigger disaster," says Syed. He crowdfunded the third edition and though he fell short he made do with the Rs 4 lakh he had raised from 190 people. And that was the first time he broke even.

But it was all a learning experience for him. "I'm not ashamed to say this but I still owe money to the people who bailed me out, and although they regard me as family, I have made it a mission to pay them back as soon as possible," he says. Fortunately for Syed, some bands and managements have understood how things work which is why he was able to get great acts over the years such as Napalm Death and Overkill.

So what goes into setting up a property of this scale? "Getting enough capital in advance to get the festival up and running. Lack of support from the government, dealing with bureaucracy and red tape with officials and the police needs to be dealt with too," says Syed.

Like he didn't have enough to deal with already came the big blow. BOA was the first music festival to be affected by covid. All arrangements were made for its ninth edition and the pandemic wreaked havoc. Thinking of alternate ways to earn revenue for the company, Syed started Rock N Roll originals that helps fans get official licensed merchandise in India from over 250 artists. But that doesn't mean that BOA is off the cards. Some fans are still holding onto their tickets that they purchased for the earlier edition. The 10th anniversary of BOA is slated for December 3, 2022.

Dying Embrace (Misanthrope earlier) in 1995, a good five years after the band was formed. He is one of the few in the scene who can boast of playing at places like Richmond Town Park, Ravindra Kalakshetra amphitheater and The Club. The band is on a hiatus now. Nevertheless, Bhat is known for running the Mahatobar Distribution Store since 2015. Remember walking into Music World or Planet M to buy or listen to CDs and cassettes? Mahatobar still gives metal fans the experience of walking into a store and discovering new artists. Bhat thinks that the vibe of the metal & rock scene was fantastic in the late 80s and early 90s in Bangalore. There were ample physical stores and also more record labels/distribution networks who licenced and released music in India.

As fancy as it sounds, running a store isn't easy especially when the target audience is small. "Keeping this small group fuelled with what they need is the biggest challenge. I'm proud to say I have managed to do that as I cater to the 'Old School' fans, basically classic 70's-80's Hard Rock and more 90s era extreme metal fans. Sourcing the right music and building brand loyalty are most essential in keeping any business afloat, the same applies here," says Bhat.

Like other businesses, Mahatobar had to bear the brunt of the pandemic as well. Bhat heaves a sigh of relief now that people have started venturing out to physical stores. What came to standstill is now picking up momentum and people are going ahead with their planned purchases. He has his fingers crossed and hopes that there isn't another wave and that we all get back to living life the way we should.

Nolan Lewis, Frontman, Kryptos

Homegrown heavy metal band Kryptos, the pioneers of heavy metal in India have been around for 24 years. Formed by Nolan Lewis (Vocals/Guitars) and Ganesh Krishnaswamy (Bassist) in the late 90s, the band has been an integral part of the Bengaluru metal chapter. With five albums to date, the band has also opened for Iron Maiden. The band (Rohit Chaturvedi, Lead Guitarist joined them in 2006 and Vijit Singh, Drummer joined the band in 2018) has toured in Germany, Austria, Netherlands and Malta.

How have things evolved here? "We were all kids and everything was 'new'. Almost every band played the same covers. But the scene back then was more 'together'. Now, the bands have become tighter, everyone's releasing albums, many are touring and bands have access to the best of everything from equipment to studios," says Lewis. Having toured Europe, Lewis spots some differences between the metal scenes here and there. Everything there seemed more professional and the fans do everything to support an act they love.

Over the years a lot of Bengaluru bands have become defunct. Does he miss anyone from the last two decades? No, he says — Simply because he wasn't interested in the kind of music they played. But he liked Bengaluru based Dying Embrace and Bevar Sea. Lewis believes right now, there are just a handful of bands like GATC, Amorphia and Against Evil that are breaking out internationally instead of harping on about a gig they played 10 years ago in a pub down the road.

Covid put brakes on their great run. They had to cancel their European tours in 2020 and 2021. The tours are rescheduled for this year but they hope they don't have to pick up from where they started. The band is to play in countries like Poland, the Czech Republic, Finland later this year. Lewis attributes them having stuck together as a tight knit unit to them still going strong.

"With these classes, now they will not waste their time for a year and get into anti-social activities like theft of bicycles, chain snatching, smoking, drinking, and so on," inspector Rajesh said.

"Many offenders I have seen during my career blame their failure in SSLC as a turning point which turned them anti-social. So, I decided to counsel some of the students at this crucial juncture," the inspector told BM.

only about 66% of this population has received both doses so far. This implies around 1.5 lakh adolescents (34%) in the city are still vulnerable to the coronavirus.

The majority of those in the age group of 12-14 years is far from being fully protected. The target population of this age group is 2.82 lakh; but around 1.02 lakh individuals have received their second dose. This leaves 63% of the children in this age group susceptible.

The data on vaccine coverage in the age group of 45-59 years suggested while a good proportion of individuals in this age group (around 16.5 lakh) have received both doses, over 40 thousand individuals (7%) are yet to get their second dose.

The numbers are worrisome, said health experts, suggesting that all above 12 years of age should get their second dose as soon as possible.

"We are pushing people to take the vaccine. However, public perception of the vaccine is a major issue that might be responsible for this delay in 100% coverage across all age groups. Moreover, the laxity can also be due to an overall decrease in the severity and number of covid-19 cases in the last few months," said KC General Hospital medical superintendent Dr Venkateshaiah.

Health experts are of the view that even though the recent uptick in the number of covid-19 cases in the city might not indicate a fourth wave, people should not let their guards down.

"Along with the second dose, the booster dose of the vaccine is also equally important. Every individual eligible for the second dose and precautionary booster dose should receive them on priority. The vaccine is the best possible option to keep ourselves safe from the virus. It might not provide total protection, but will surely boost immunity," said a medical health practitioner at a private hospital in the city.

Door-to-door delay

The Palike was gearing up to kickstart its door-to-door campaign in June to increase vaccine coverage, but the initiative is yet to take off. The idea was to inoculate those above 60 years of age with the booster dose and children in the age group of 12-14 years.

"The campaign was to begin from June 1. However, we are currently occupied with the sero survey of unvaccinated children in the age group of 6-12 years. We will begin the door-to-door campaign as soon as possible," said a senior BBMP health official.

This monsoon, let's catch the rain

As monsoon clouds gather over Bengaluru, the Mahadevapura constituency will prepare 75 locations spread across different wards to harvest rainwater.

The Mahadevapura Task Force (Jal Shakthi) aims to collect 3,043 million litres of rainwater by the end of the campaign.

'Catch the Rain' campaign was launched on June 11. Over the course of two months, the task force will clean kalyanis and desilt lakes to increase their water holding capacity. Apart from waterbodies and parks, other open areas have been identified. The project will be implemented mostly using funds allocated by the BBMP for lakes.

Work is going on at lakes and kalyanis in the city. As of now 10 places are ready and 65 are yet to be developed

"We have identified 75 locations where water can be absorbed into the soil — lakes, sparks and kalyanis. This will ensure around 3,000 million litres of rainwater is collected. Smaller lakes will be taken up first and bigger lakes will be considered later. In some areas, the lakes will be developed using funds allocated by the BBMP for lake development and in other areas, we will be looking at CSR funds," Clement Jayakumar, Chairman of The Mahadevapura Task Force (Jal Shakthi) , told Bangalore Mirror.

Ram Prasad, co-founder of Friends of Lakes, a group that works for rejuvenation of lakes in the city, said, "The campaign should translate to on-ground action. All rules and regulations need to be followed to make it a successful campaign. As per KTCDA Act, lakes need to be desilted to reach their original water holding capacity to allow for effective water percolation. We are also suggesting water wells instead of water pits to provide livelihoods for members of the Bhovi community."

As per the project, there are 15 lakes, 26 kalyanis, 19 parks, four schools, five public places and six government land belonging to dry waste collection centres and the BWSSB office. Through the project, 231 percolation pits will be developed. As of now, 10 spots are ready and 65 spots are yet to be developed.

Plenty of pothole perils on Nanjangud-Mysore highway

Once upon a time, the Nanjangud-Mysore highway was a travellers' dream. Smooth and pothole-free, it was the lifeline for many heading towards Kozhikode, Bandipur and Ooty.

Now, the potholed highway is a commuters' nightmare, and people wonder why they should pay a toll to drive on a potholed road. The NH-766 which connects Nanjangud and Mysuru became a death trap for the commuters due to the negligence of NHAI and verbal duels are a common scene at the highway's toll plazas.

"As per the statement issued by the Centre, the booths will be removed where there is more than one toll booth between 60 km. On National Highway 766, there are three toll collection centres for a road stretching 155 km," said Nandeesha S, a resident of Mysuru.

Reacting to this, NHAI Project director BT Shridhar said, "We will take action to fill the potholes. We have also asked personnel to change the location of the high-tension line which is now passing through Kapila river."

Now, many roads in Mysuru are getting a facelift as PM Modi is arriving in the royal city to take part in International Yoga Day. Though the asphalting work was taken up on Nanjangud Road, it was limited only till Mandakalli airport where PM will be landing. As the PM will not go beyond the highway, the NHAI has not bothered to fill the potholes, allege residents.

The highway is used by many heading towards Ooty (file pic)

The commuters also allege that there's a lack of streetlights on the highway.

Bengaluru-Mysuru highway faces litigation issues

Meanwhile, Bengaluru-Mysuru highway is facing numerous litigations. Recently, NHAI had issued a fresh notification for property acquisition and officials said that the litigation is the biggest hindrance.

As of now, the first phase till Nidaghatta is 80 per cent complete and Nidaghatta to Mysuru is 40 per cent complete. However, authorities claim that the highway will be ready by Dasara this year.

"Some link roads are incomplete, and links to flyovers are also pending. The compensation paid in Kempanahalli in Bidadi Kallugopahalli is Rs 1.26 crore for one acre, the land adjacent to it was paid only Rs 63 lakh. So, there are complaints that some big shots are getting higher compensation while others are left with lesser amounts," said Suresh S, a resident of Bidadi.

NHAI officials say that the highway cost has increased. Earlier, there were plans to collect toll gates only at the entry and exit of the highway. However, due to opposition from the locals, now NHAI has decided to have toll gates at the entry and exit points of bypasses for towns like Ramanagar, Bidadi, and Channapatna. This has increased the project cost and also slightly delayed the project work.

CHILDREN OF TOMORROW

Survey by social network finds that child labour has shot up due to covid and schools being closed; authorities, they say, are doing nothing

Bellie Thomas
bellie.thomas@timesgroup.com
TWEETS @Bellie_Mirror

If there's one segment of society that was probably hit the hardest due to the pandemic, it would be children. A large number of students dropped out of schools and went into economic activities, (child labour) to support their families financially while many others continue to study and work at the same time.

A network of many anti child-labour groups, Campaign Against Child Labour (CACL), which has chapters in around 18 states including Karnataka, conducted campaigns in five states: Karnataka, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra, Tamil Nadu and West Bengal, and found a shockingly high percentage of children who have entered the industry especially in the non-hazardous and the unorganised sector. Members of the organization say the problem is worse because government figures have not acted.

However, this is only the tip of the iceberg.

"The numbers of children who dropped out of schools during the pandemic and started earning to financially help their families were shocking revelations. Child labour among vulnerable communities in Tamil Nadu increased by around 280 percent after the pandemic," National Convenor of CACL, Mathews Philip, told Bangalore Mirror.

K'taka: A grim picture

During the academic year 2019-2020, the Karnataka State Commission for Protection of Child Rights (KSCPCR) had selected Tumakuru declaring it as a child labour-free district. However, the reality is far from what has been portrayed.

Abhivrudhi Foundation, an NGO and part of CACL Karnataka, undertook the study of child labour in disguise on behalf of CACL-Karnataka by selecting villages in four gram panchayats.

More kids are working in waste segregation, vegetable & fruit shops, garages, said the survey

> "Parents are unaware about child rights and community members will not complain to the authorities
> –Mathews Philip, National Convenor, CACL

It was not an easy task. Volunteers faced numerous difficulties in visiting the communities and collecting data. In spite of these hurdles, Abhivrudhi team members found a few families who had sent their children for labour and were willing to give information.

"The team found out that children were working with their parents and other family members in agriculture, brick factories, shops, selling vegetables, flowers, groundnuts, working in fruit shops, and running other errands. The team also recorded a lot of children were found in vending and other work at the toll. The unfortunate part was that the parents did not know the importance of education and child rights and the community members were not ready to file complaints with to ChildLine 1098 or the police," narrated Mathews.

The survey also revealed that the local authorities, school teachers did not worry about children who had dropped out. Girls were also working as domestic labourers and in agricultural fields. Government officials like BEO, BRC were not visiting schools or villages which was mandatory, and the survey revealed that many children had lost interest in schools and education.

"The government must assess the current status of school-going children and dropouts and the ones who have engaged in child labour. The government's guidelines on not considering children working in non-hazardous and unorganised sector as a crisis is only encouraging child labour," says Philip. "There should be a total blanket prohibition child labour in all sectors until the age of 18," he added.

Looking at other states

A survey conducted in West Bengal by the CACL revealed that 60 per cent to 64 per cent of child labourers are enrolled in schools and the percentage of school-enrolled child labourers is 70.9 per cent among the age group of 14-18 years.

IThe CACL network in Madhya Pradesh (MP) surveyed online a total of 662 children from 23 districts in Madhya Pradesh and Chhattisgarh cumulatively. The survey revealed that a total of 88 per cent boys or 378 out of 571 were involved in child labour activities. Around 82 per cent of girls were found to be involved in child labour, the survey revealed.

South India Cell for Human Rights Education and Monitoring (SICHREM) members said that it was high time the government conducts surveys and initiates programs to bring back students to school as education is their fundamental right.

'Minors can be cross-examined once they're 18'

The provision of Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act, which prohibits child victims from being repeatedly called to testify in court, 'gets diluted' once the victim crosses 18 years of age, the High Court of Karnataka has said.

It has, therefore, allowed a victim, who was a minor when the alleged crime against her was committed, to be recalled for cross-examination in the trial court.

The victim was 15 years of age in January 2019 when the alleged crime took place. When the alleged perpetrator filed the application for her to be called back for cross-examination on March 28, 2022, she had crossed 18 years of age, the HC said.

The mother of the victim had filed the complaint against the son of her brother, alleging that in April 2018, 'when the parents were not at home, he had indulged in certain acts on the victim.

> "Once the victim crosses 18 years of age, the rigour of Section 33(5) of the POCSO Act gets diluted
> –HC

One of the witnesses, the victim's father, had testified in trial court that there was no sexual act committed against the victim.

Following this, the accused, who claimed he was in a romantic relationship with the victim, sought to bring her back for cross-examination.

The plea was rejected by the trial court which said as per Section 33(5) of the POCSO Act, a child-victim cannot be called repeatedly to testify in court.

The accused then approached the High Court.

Justice M Nagaprasanna in his recent judgement said that Section 33(5) 'would not mean that the accused can be deprived of his right to cross-examination in a trial, particularly, where offence punishable is beyond ten years'.

The second factor was the girl's age.

"Once the victim crosses 18 years of age, the rigour of Section 33(5) of the Act gets diluted, as it is the child-victim who shall not be called for cross-examination or re-examination repeatedly," the court noted.

Residents succeed in getting BBMP to remove garbage

The pavement could not be used to walk and reeked of rotting waste

TWEETS @BangaloreMIRROR

The residents living on and around Moore Road, Fraser Town, had to suffer a lot before the BBMP officials conducted a cleaning drive to remove all the debris that was obstructing the road.

The residents say that the footpath had become a dumping ground for debris and other garbage. There was a continuous stench emanating from there, and as a result, they had to use the main road instead.

Sabisha K, a resident of the area, said, "The condition of the footpath was indescribable. There was dirt and garbage everywhere and no space left to walk."

The stench was another problem. Sunitha Raman, another resident of the area, said that because of the garbage present, the entire place used to stink. It was difficult to breathe and the entire area looked like a giant garbage dump."

The pedestrians found it even more difficult to commute. Nagesh Kumar, a commuter, said, "The traffic on the road is too bad to begin with.

The road is so congested and there is no space for the vehicles to move. On top of that, people are also using the road to walk. So, the road is a mess, especially during the morning and the evening hours."

Habiba Subhan, a social activist who was working for this cause, added that a lot of traffic was rerouted to this road because of the storm-water drain repair on Netaji Road. Hence, all the traffic from that road was directed here.

After several requests from Habiba and other residents, BBMP officials finally cleared the footpath and removed all the debris and abandoned pushcarts that cluttered the footpath.

While the residents are a bit relieved after getting their footpath back, they say that the other side of the road is yet to be restored. BBMP officials said,

"Last night, we made a night visit to the area. We saw there was a lot of garbage and stones on a few of the roads and instructions were given to fix them."

DID YOU KNOW?

Gowri Habba is a Hindu festival celebrated a day before Ganesh Chaturthi. This festival celebrates the goddess Gowri or Gauri, (also known as Parvati) who is venerated as the mother of Ganesha. It is usually observed by married women and is a significant festival in Bengaluru and parts of south India. On this day, married women, after bathing, wear new or smart clothes and dress up the girls of the family. Then they do the 'sthapana' of either jalagauri or arishinadagauri (a symbolic idol of Gowri made of turmeric). Painted and decorated clay idols of Gowri can be bought at the local market. The idol is mounted on a plate, with a cereal (rice or wheat) in it. Unmarried girls (kanya) in the house also wear a gauridaara, but it doesn't have knots, just 16 strand cotton thread dipped in turmeric and a yellow chrysanthemum looped in it.

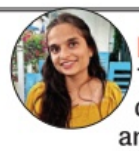
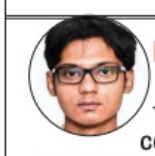
where Bengalureans speak their mind

How can teachers and parents help children adapt in a classroom environment once more after a covid hiatus?

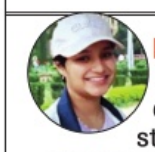
Kishore K, BM Reader
Teachers and parents can help students post covid by firstly making sure that they are familiar with their social environment. This can be done with effective interactions and fun icebreaker activities with their peers.



Manasvi Kadabi, BM Reader
Teachers and parents can teach children about stress management and make it a part of their classes to help them. Schools must also orient parents and teachers to ensure the well-being of students during this transition phase.



Pablo Sinha, Student
Parents and teachers can help them by providing professional counselling to help battle isolation that they faced during this hiatus.



Khushi Agarwal, Student
Parents and teachers should check up on students regularly and stay alert for behavioural changes affecting them. Students' suggestions can also be taken to create a safe and comfortable classroom environment.

Shaswath, BM Reader
Activities should be organised in order to make sure that the shift back to academic life does not put pressure on students. Games and other co-scholastic activities may help make this shift easier.

Arbind Singh, BM Reader
Parents and teachers should make the course easier and introduce co-curricular activities to help them mentally and physically.

As airfare soars, vacay planners feel the pinch

Airlines are trying to offset higher fuel costs with price hikes

#New Delhi

Domestic airfares have increased more than 20% on average since early April and are expected to go up further, as airlines try to offset higher fuel costs with price hikes, industry executives said. "Right now, the fortnightly price hike in ATF (aviation turbine fuel) leads to an increase in fares. Airlines can no longer absorb the additional burden of costs," said a senior airline executive, who didn't want to be named. "So, expect another hike (in airfares) on June 15. And this trend will continue."

The higher cost of air travel has already started affecting demand. Passenger traffic — that was nearing pre-Covid levels — has slowed in June, according to airline executives. "Rise in ATF prices is a big concern for the industry and is impacting forward bookings due to the high fare environment," said Gaurav Patwari, head of air business at travel portal Cleartrip. Fares on some of the busier sectors have increased by as much as 40%, he said.

ATF accounts for 40% of an airline's expense. Its price has increased every fortnight since the start of this calendar year till last month, when it hit a record high.

After a 1.3% cut earlier in June, fuel companies may increase prices again. At market leader IndiGo's earnings call recently, chief executive Rono Dutta said fares would increase, but it would be a balancing act between managing fuel price and demand. "Profitability is on top of our minds," he had said.

A plane about to land at the Mumbai airport

The higher airfare came at a time when demand and airline capacity were increasing.

Daily domestic traffic had crossed 4,00,000 in two days in April and May, but fell to 3,20,000-3,50,000 later in May and so far in June, said the unnamed airline executive cited earlier.

Before Covid-19, in November and December of 2019, daily traffic had touched more than 4,20,000, he said. Cleartrip's Patwari said the recovery in domestic passenger traffic had reached 95% of pre-Covid levels in April-May this year. IndiGo's Dutta and Vistara chief executive Vinod Kannan told ET recently that their capacity was now more than pre-Covid levels.

IndiGo's Dutta and Vistara chief executive Vinod Kannan told ET recently that their capacity was now more than pre-Covid levels. IndiGo is currently operating 1,500 daily domestic flights, which is 25% higher than the pre-Covid levels. At 250 flights a day, Vistara's operations too have increased 25%.

Goa-tripping: Mopa airport will get first flight on Sept 1

#PANAJI

Goa Chief Minister Pramod Sawant on Tuesday said that flights will start landing at Mopa airport from September 1. The inauguration date, however, is yet to be decided.

The Mopa Airport is a greenfield airport in Pernem, and is expected to reduce a considerable amount of air traffic load from the existing airport, Dabolim Airport, the state's only airport.

The current airport, Dabolim Airport is located in a military airbase INS Hansa, and is shared by the Indian Navy. Mopa Airport, as a civilian airport, aims to boost tourism in the state as it will cater to civilian traffic in full capacity.

More than eight million domestic and international visitors visit Goa each year, making it one of the most popular tourism destinations in the country. With the new civilian airport, the state is expecting to see an increase in the number of visitors. — Agencies

Fashion designer Prathyusha Garimella found dead

#HYDERABAD

Celebrity fashion designer Prathyusha Garimella was found dead on Saturday in suspicious circumstances at her Banjara Hills residence in Hyderabad, Telangana.

Prathyusha, who was the founder of her own label named Prathyusha Garimella, used to run a fashion studio in Banjara Hills and had top clients from Tollywood, Bollywood and also from other sectors.

The Circle Inspector of Banjara Hills has stated that she was found lying in the bathroom and that her dead body has been shifted to Osmania hospital for PME. She is suspected to have died by suicide.

Police have seized a carbon monoxide cylinder from her bedroom. A case has been registered in Banjara Hills under provisions related to a suspicious death and a further probe will be carried out. — ANI

Cheers! That's a six alright

#Nottingham

New Zealand all-rounder Daryl Mitchell continued his good form in the ongoing Test series against England as he followed up his hundred at Lord's with an unbeaten half-century, which was surely a stroke-filled innings at the Trent Bridge. During his 81*-run knock, Mitchell hit a couple of sixes and one of them landed straight into a spectator's beer glass.

The incident took place in the 56th over of the innings bowled by left-arm spinner Jack Leach when Mitchell hit the flighted delivery for a six over the straight boundary and the ball went into the spectator's pint of beer. If anyone didn't understand what happened, pacer Matty Potts was there for the rescue.

SPORTS

Potts explained with hand gestures exactly what happened and even signalled that it landed in a drink if anyone had any confusion that left even the commentators Michael Atherton and Nasser Hussain in splits.

Later, the woman, Susan was given a replacement by the New Zealand side as confirmed by the Barmy Army on social media with the pictures. After the day's play, Mitchell even met Susan to apologise for hitting straight into her beer glass while asking if they got her a replacement and she was quick to confirm that not just one, she got two free ones in place of one. Mitchell asked the woman to catch it with her hands next time instead of beer and Susan was quick to mention that it went straight into her drink and she didn't have enough time to think. — Times Now

Nagaland killings: SIT names Major among 30 soldiers in charge sheet

#Kohima

The Special Investigation Team (SIT), set up by the Nagaland government to probe the killing of 14 people in Mon district in December last year, has named 30 Army men including a major, in its charge sheet submitted to court, officials said on Saturday.

A senior Nagaland Police official said that the SIT submitted its charge sheet to the District and Sessions Court in Mon district on May 30 through the additional public prosecutor and named 30 members of the operation team of 21 Para (Special Force) - the major, two subedars, eight havildars, four nayaks, six lance nayaks and nine paratroopers.

"A CID report seeking sanction for prosecution is forwarded to the Department of Military Affairs in the first week of April and reminder letter sent in May. The sanction for prosecution is awaited. The charge sheet has been filed," the Nagaland Police said in a statement. – IANS

SONALI SAYS

No smoking, tobacco endorsements, thank you

Sonali Bendre, who featured in a lot of advertisements before her Bollywood debut in 1994, recently recalled her decision never to endorse smoking and tobacco.

In an interview with Filmfare, Sonali revealed that she only did a minor beer commercial because she needed money at the time. The actress said, "There is a very minor ad which I had done once in my life, which was some sort of a beer thing, I think. But since then, when it comes to smoking, tobacco, and all these products, I don't endorse them. I don't even do political rallies or that sort of thing--this has been a very conscious decision."

Elaborating further, Sonali added that she did those commercials to pay her bills. "When you say 'shut down', it was not anything like 'shut down' but for me, it was my next paycheck coming in. My rent needed to be paid and I needed the money. It was a call that I took when I needed the money, it is not a call that I have taken when I don't need that kind of money," the actress added.

Sonali concluded by saying that while she doesn't label it as right or wrong, she believes that one has to live with the repercussions of their choices.

Meanwhile, on the work front, she is making her digital debut with 'The Broken News' co-starring Shriya Pilgaonkar and Jaideep Ahlawat.

Kissed by the Sun in Berlin

Janhvi Kapoor, who is currently shooting for Nitesh Tiwari's 'Bawaal' with co-star Varun Dhawan in 'Berlin', shared some sun-kissed photos with her fans on Instagram.

Dressed in a black floral outfit and a blue denim jacket, Janhvi looks fresh as a daisy in the photos. Her open tresses, hoop earrings and pink lips complete her overall gorgeous look. Along with the lovely photos, she wrote, 'we're after the same rainbows end'.

Varun and Janhvi have been travelling to exotic places for the shooting of 'Bawaal'. The actors have been sharing pictures and videos of them having fun with each other. This is the first time Janhvi and Varun are coming together on the silver screen. 'Bawaal' will hit the theatres on April 7, 2023.

Meanwhile, on the work front, Janhvi has her kitty full of some very interesting films. She has 'Mr and Mrs Mahi' with Rajkummar Rao, 'Good Luck Jerry', 'Mili', 'Dostana 2' with Lakshya, and Karan Johar's magnum opus, 'Takht' in her kitty.

Janhvi's baby sister Khushi Kapoor is also all set to follow her big sister's footsteps as she is ready for her big Bollywood debut. She will be seen in Zoya Akhtar's 'The Archies' along with Suhana Khan and Agastya Nanda.

Painted as monsters: SRK told NCB officer

Shah Rukh Khan's son Aryan Khan was recently given a clean chit in drugs on cruise case. During probe, deputy director of NCB, Sanjay Singh, who headed the Special Investigations Team (SIT), spoke to Shah Rukh Khan.

Sanjay Singh told a news portal that Khan had raised concerns about his son's mental and emotional state. The NCB officer stated that SRK gave company to his son at night as Aryan was not sleeping well. The emotional star also stated that they had been painted as 'some kind of big criminals or monsters who are out to destroy society', Sanjay Singh told India Today. —ETimes

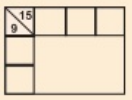
The numbers in the grey squares refer to the sums of the digits that you must fill into the empty spaces directly below or to the right of the grey square containing the number. For instance, in the given example, the 3 boxes horizontally next to 15 must contain 3 digits that add up to 15, whereas for 9, it is the 2 boxes placed vertically under it that must add up to 9. No zeros are used here, only the digits 1 through 9.



Note: A digit cannot appear more than once in any particular digit combination. For instance, in the example, we cannot have the combination of 4+7+4 for 15.

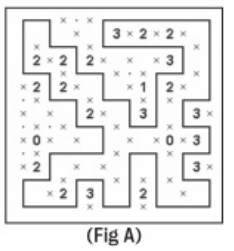
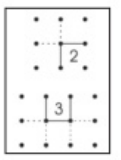
Rules

» Connect adjacent dots with vertical or horizontal lines, creating a single loop (Fig A). » Crossovers or branches are not allowed (As shown by dotted lines in Fig B). » Numbers in the puzzle indicate the number of lines that should surround it, while empty cells may be surrounded by any number of lines. » You can't draw lines around zeros. » Each puzzle has just one unique solution.



(Fig A)



(Fig B) Not Allowed

How to begin:

Example (Fig A) – Begin with the zero next to 3. Since no lines can be drawn around zero, mark crosses around it, as shown. Now there is a cross in one space around 3. So we know the three lines of 3 can only be drawn in the remaining three spaces. Next, these lines can only be extended in one direction each. Continue, using the same logic.

Hints: Keep eliminating possibilities by marking crosses in spaces between dots where a line isn't possible, i.e., if you have already completed required lines or where a line extension may create a branch or cause a dead-end (Fig B)

Eating sustainably

Plate up these recipes that use tempayy, a plant-based, versatile ingredient

TEMPAYY BHURJI

INGREDIENTS
- Tempayy cubes: 200 gm
- Turmeric powder: 1/4 tsp
- Fresh ginger: 1/2 inch
- Onions: 1
- Fresh coriander leaves: 1 tsp
- Milk: 1/2 cup
- Black pepper powder: 1/2 tbsp
- Oil: 3 tbsp
- Salt: to taste

Prep Time: 10 mins Cooking Time: 12 mins Serves 4

METHOD

Tempayy
- Crumble the Tempayy cubes by hand and set aside. Finely chop onions, green chillies, ginger and coriander leaves and keep aside.

Cooking
- Heat oil in a pan. Add chopped ginger and sauté for 30 seconds. Add chopped onions and sauté for 5 mins or until they turn translucent. Add chopped green chillies, turmeric powder and crumbled tempayy. Sauté for 7 mins. Add salt, black pepper powder and fresh coriander leaves. Sauté for 02 more minutes. Add salt to taste. Pour milk and sauté for 2 more minutes. Serve hot with some pao or sliced bread of your choice.

TEMPAYY BOLOGNESE

Prep Time: 15 mins Cooking Time: 20 mins Serves 2

INGREDIENTS
- Tempayy cubes: 200 gm
- Penne/ Pasta of your choice: 250 gm
- Tomatoes: 5
- Tomato puree: 100 ml
- Onions chopped: 2
- Garlic chopped: 2 tsp
- Celery chopped: 2 tsp
- Carrot chopped: 2 tsp
- Chopped parsley: for garnish
- Vegetarian stock cube: 1
- Grated parmesan cheese: 4 tsp
- Fresh basil leaves: 6
- Olive oil: 6 tsp
- Worcestershire sauce: A dash
- Sugar: A pinch

METHOD

Tempayy
- Grate the tempayy cubes and keep aside.

Pasta
- Put penne/ any other variety of pasta in boiling water with some oil and salt, for the prescribed amount of time mentioned on the packet (differs with brands). Once boiled, strain the excess water and keep aside.

Vegetables
- Finely chop onions, celery, carrots, garlic and parsley and keep aside. Remove the eye of the tomatoes, put a cross mark at the other end with a knife. Blanch them in boiling water for 02 mins, remove and cool. Peel the skin, squeeze and remove the seeds in a separate bowl. Chop the remaining tomatoes.

Cooking
- Heat 4 teaspoons of olive oil in a pan. Add garlic and sauté for two minutes. Add onions and sauté for five minutes. Add celery and carrots and cook for five minutes. Further add chopped tomatoes and tomato puree; cook for 10 mins. Add basil leaves, crushed vegetarian stock cubes and boiled penne. Mix well. Cook for 5-7 mins. Add sugar and a dash of Worcestershire sauce. Sprinkle grated tempayy, grated cheese and chopped parsley. Toss it for 2 mins and serve hot.

TEMPAYY TACOS

INGREDIENTS
- Tempayy cubes: 200 gms
- Tortillas/ Taco shells: 4
- Barbeque sauce: 6 tsp

For the refried beans
- Boiled rajma: 6 tsp
- Fresh garlic: 1 tsp
- Cumin powder: 2 tsp
- Jalapenos: 2 tsp
- Coriander, fresh: 2 tsp
- Tomato puree: 4 tsp
- Oil: 3 tsp
- Salt: to taste

For the sour cream: 4 tsp
- Fresh cream: 3 tsp
- Hung curd: 4 tsp
- Lemon juice: 2 tsp
- Salt: to taste
- Fresh red chillies: 1
- Black pepper powder: 1 tsp

METHOD
- Marinate tempayy cubes in the barbeque sauce for 10 mins. Sauté for 5 mins and keep aside. Boil Rajma till soft and grind it into a paste. In a pan, heat oil and sauté the chopped garlic. Then add the tomato puree and sauté for approximately 4 mins. Add the rajma paste and cumin powder and cook for 10 mins. Finish with chopped jalapenos, chopped coriander and salt to taste.

Assembling
- Heat the tortillas on a hot tawa. Skip if using taco shells. Spread it on a board and spread the refried beans evenly on it. Add the barbeque marinated tempayy and top it with sour cream. Make a roll/ taco and serve.

All problems solved

Dear Coleen

I'm a woman in my early 30s and my parents have always favoured my younger sister over me. When we were kids she was a bit wild and not as easy as me, so they focused on her a lot and left me to get on with it. I'm married now with a young child and my sister has a long-term boyfriend and a baby. Recently, I asked my parents to come on holiday with us as they've never accompanied us before, though they have been away with my sister and her family. I thought it would be a good chance to spend time together, especially after Covid and not having many opportunities to get together. But when I asked my parents, they said they'd already invited my sister and her boyfriend. Do you have any advice on how I can curb my disappointment?

COLEEN SAYS

I've had a lot of letters over the years from people who struggle with their parents doing more for a sibling. Often, it's down to the fact that parents take it for granted that one child is managing well, so they focus their attention on the one who needs more help, and this goes right through to adulthood.

It's important you feel heard and I think it's possible to tell your parents how you feel without causing an argument. It's about how you say it.

Mention you feel disappointed and hurt over the holiday, and it's brought up stuff from your childhood when you felt their attention was focused on your sister and you feel it still is.

Being direct and letting them know you want them to be a bigger part of your life will hopefully make them think about how they do things going forward, and be sensitive to your needs, too. But once you've said it, move on and really enjoy your break with your family.

—Coleen Nolan, Daily Mirror
